Gilchrist's Answer!

Our prices today, as compared with last year, show, on the average, a decrease of about 35%. Furthermore, our record shows that since May, 1920, when we announced our "Smash at the High Cost of Living," our prices not only stopped going up, but immediately began decreasing and have been doing so ever since. In spite of the fact that we and other representative stores are constantly making further efforts to reduce the cost of living, retailers are still criticised for not adjusting prices to present conditions.

Let the Items listed below—selected at random—be our answer to such unfair criticism

Monthly Review —OF— Federal Reserve Board of Boston May 1, 1921 Referring to the New England Retail Trade, the Federal Reserve Board Goes on to Say— The reduction of prices, as shown by their decreased retail value, is evidence which contradicts the view hitherto more or less prevalent that retail merchants have not reduced prices of their goods to approximately a replacement cost basis. Representative retail merchants generally are maintaining that their merchandise is marked at prices corresponding to replacement cost, and that they are following the wholesale market closely in changing their retail prices. The wholesale market is generally maintaining fairly stationary. OREGON MUST PLEDGE SAFETY

Policy on Mexico Announced After Harding Confers With Cabinet

By Universal Service
Washington, May 11.—(Continued from the Oregonian of May 10.)

The United States will again guarantee from that government for the safety of the living and property of American citizens in Mexico.

The Mexican policy of the Harding administration already is derelictated. The administration of this well-defined Mexican policy is expected shortly. This was strongly indicated following the meeting of President Harding and his cabinet.

PRINCIPLES OF POLICY.

From authoritative sources it was learned that the broad principles of the new policy are as follows:

1. The Oregon government must guarantee that there will be no continuation of American property in Mexico.
2. A complete guarantee of protection for the lives of American citizens in Mexico.
3. Based on these fundamental and certain, other stipulations, the American government will agree to guarantee the government of Mexico to protect the lives of American citizens in Mexico.

BEHAVIOR GOVERNMENT STABLE.

The Harding administration is understood to be in the hands of the present government in Mexico. The American government will agree to guarantee the government of Mexico to protect the lives of American citizens in Mexico.

Another stipulation, it is learned, is that the American government will agree to guarantee the government of Mexico to protect the lives of American citizens in Mexico.

OIL RIGHTS GUARANTEED.

Oregon is said to be willing to withdraw its claim to the oil rights in the Mexican oil fields, provided the American government will agree to guarantee the government of Mexico to protect the lives of American citizens in Mexico.

FRANCE PLANS FORTY BILLION FRANC LOAN

By Universal Service.

Paris, May 11.—(Continued from the Oregonian of May 10.)

The French government is planning to issue a loan of 40 billion francs, or $10 billion, to meet the needs of the government.

More and Better Hospitals Needed for Veterans; Build Now!

All the things which the so-called Dawes commission, appointed by President Harding, has so forcefully recommended should be undertaken promptly and generously for the benefit of disabled veterans are deserving of the most serious consideration by Congress at the earliest possible moment.

Justice, like charity, begins at home. Therefore, this report, to which the President called attention in his message to Congress the other day, is of more immediate importance than treaties and foreign relations, emergency tariffs and sales taxes.

This report offers a belated solution of the country's most important problem in justice—human consideration of the finest quality and largest quantity for our heroic American soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses who came home from war physical wrecks.

This American Congress has no higher or more sacred duty to perform than to make quickly available the laws and the funds necessary to translate the report's recommendations into realities. Time and time again the Hearst papers have made the very same recommendations.

We must have more and better hospitals, constructed, owned and operated by our government.

We must remove our boys who are suffering from lung, mind and nerve troubles, brought on by war, from jails, almshouses, insane asylums, old men's homes, orphanages and profiteering contract hospitals, often remodelled ramshackle roadhouses, to the best types of modern hospital building.

We must take them from abuse, neglect and practical abandonment, from the environment that breeds discouragement, shiftlessness and hopelessness, to an atmosphere that is wholesome; where the highest degree of curative attainment is sought, where incentive is inculcated in the discouraged to go back to useful civil life as soon as possible, and where there is the best of training at hand to help them to make good the incentive.

If this country is to be saved from a scourge of insanity and tuberculosis an extensive campaign for intelligent care and treatment must be inaugurated at once. No more investigations are needed. They would make only for greater delay. Our people know the sorry story by heart.

Now is the time for action. Build hospitals! Brook no more dilly-dallying! It takes two years to construct and equip a modern 500-bed hospital. Nearly three years have been wasted. Waste of time means waste of lives and bodies and minds.

It is high time to think in terms of disabled men instead of beds. It is time to file the paper documents and consider the human documents.

The last Congress authorized $18,600,000 for new hospitals and extensions. All agencies of government handling the disabled soldier problem agree that an expenditure of $20,000,000 more is needed to put through the right kind of hospitalization program.

We must frown upon makeshift policies, upon cheap expedients that would consign the mentally sick or the consumptive, or the boys with nerve troubles and weakened hearts, to temporarily repaired and unpurified tumbledown barracks in abandoned cantonments.

We must put a stop to the hunt for "paper" beds. We must provide real ones. The Boston American has voiced these demands repeatedly. The President's commission shouts them.

The records indicate 75,000 tubercular, 50,000 mental and nervous and a possible score of 641,000 general cases. That's why.

New England may receive one of the new government hospitals. If it does, thanks will be due the Boston American, whose watchfulness and perseverance thwarted the plan to eliminate New England from consideration.

If New England fails to receive one, public officials and organizations will be to blame for their tardy and lukewarm interest.

We respectfully submit to legion posts that this is what must be said to Congress:

Provide more hospitals of the right kind.

Consolidate the bureaus, boards and services caring for soldiers, along the lines laid down by the President's commission and as set forth in the bill fathered by Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts.

Pass a decent bonus bill at this session. Call it "adjusted compensation" or anything you please.

Pass the Stevens bill to equalize the retirement pay of disabled reserve and regular army officers.

'Noblest Roman of Them All'

The splendid work which United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin is doing for the people of the United States recalls to mind Senator Walsh of Massachusetts said once about La Follette as he passed by the Massachusetts Senator in the marble lobby of the State chamber.

The Wisconsin Senator did not look well and his head was somewhat bowed down, and he walked rather slowly. Senator Walsh followed him thoughtfully and sympathetically with his eyes and finally, as it urged by an irrepressible impulse of respect and admiration, the Massachusetts man said in a low, earnest voice:

There goes the noblest Roman of them all.

Senator La Follette's attack upon the mismanagement of our railroads and upon the false propaganda which would attribute the railroad difficulties to government management, and upon the selfishness and self-complacency of those Americans who will not lift a hand to help the cause of liberty in Ireland and India, are but recent examples of a long career of courage, vision and statesmanship in Senator La Follette.

Incidentally the impulsive remark of Senator Walsh throws a light on his sentiments and it is pleasant to note by this sign as well as by his speeches and votes that the influences at Washington are succeeding in corrupting him away from democracy no better than they succeeded while he was Governor of Massachusetts.
